How Much Is Enough Balancing Today's Needs with Tomorrow's Retirement Goals
Diane McCurdy

Date on Show: Friday, April 7, 2006
A top financial planner for 25 years, Diane wrote How Much Is Enough? to address the questions, confusions and insecurities about money that she's seen time after time in her office. As Diane says: "When people leave my office, they're smiling. They may be in debt up to their eyeballs, but at least they know precisely what they have to do to get debt-free and to build the retirement they want, and they know where the money is hiding." The How Much Is Enough? program works for Diane's clients. At a time when US savings are at their lowest point in 80 years, people everywhere are waking up to the need for effective financial planning. In How Much is Enough? you'll identify and address the underlying attitudes that influence your behavior toward money. You'll make a wish list based in reality and you'll find the money you need to make that wish list come true. And even if you think you've left it too late, Diane will show you how it's never too late to get started on finding financial peace of mind.
